

Help Bring Negotiations Across The Finish Line!

After months of intensive negotiations--including a 10-day stretch of "round-the-clock" discussions--APWU and the U.S. Postal Service agreed to extend negotiations through October 20.

Between now and October 20, we need to show management that we are standing shoulder-to-shoulder across the nation in our fight for a fair contract and economic justice.

Will you stand with us this Thursday--and every Thursday--by wearing your APWU gear, posting photos on social media with the hashtag #APWUUnited, and sending us your photos at nccc@apwu.org?

Although the September 20 deadline passed without a deal, we were able to identify important issues that we believe deserve more time to explore before declaring an impasse and ending negotiations.

Our goal is to reach a negotiated settlement that can be voted on by members. National negotiations are always challenging.

Let's stand together to send management a message. 'Gear Up' this Thursday with your colleagues. Show your union pride by posting photos on social media with the hashtag #APWUnited and send your photos to nccc@apwu.org so we can share them and show our strength.

Postal workers deserve the respect, dignity, and recognition for their dedication and hard work that comes with a decent union contract. We will continue this just fight over the next 30 days.

Show that we're standing as one--'Gear Up' this Thursday and every Thursday through October 20 to show your solidarity.

In unity,

The National Contract Campaign Committee
